

Executive Summary:

Our application delivers comprehensive financial insights by analyzing daily price movements over a three-month period. It features an advanced ML model that forecasts next-day price trends and displays these alongside a moving average line. This integrated view supports users in developing and simulating financial strategies conveniently within the platform.

Moreover, the application offers a detailed financial retrospective, providing users access to up to eight quarters of data on assets, liabilities, and equity for selected companies. This depth of financial data empowers users to make informed decisions based on robust historical analysis.